

You belong to me!

Yaoi Story

Von GavinReed

Did you really mean it?

Chapter 1: Did you really mean it?

Danny never thought this had actually happened. Two years ago, he was involved into a fight. That day, he almost died, and he was never so close to death.

He fought against Vlad. But there were two problems. Danny had feelings for Vlad, and yes he loved him.

But he also knows that the other men would never love him back, because Vlad hated him and wanted him dead. The second problem was he couldn't fight him any more.

For himself it was very hard to fight an arch enemy that you actually love. And that day was the point, he couldn't take it any more, to fight Vlad, and he lost.

He lay on the ground, bruised, bleeding and unable to move. His enemy Plasimus stood over him. His evil smile grew even wider.

Before Danny could realize, he felt two strong hands around his neck. He tried to fight back and get these hands off, of his neck. But he actually was too weak for this but he doesn't want to give up. But it was very hard to breath.

"Stop...this... don't want to fight you..."he gasped.

„Then it would be easier for me! " Vlad said in a cold voice, curious to kill that boy.

Danny could feel it, he was going to die, his heartbeat was getting lower, even his Ghost power and turned back to his human form.

.....

Before the Black haired lost his consciousness he said three words to Vlad, which took him completely out of the socket and he let go of Danny. The white haired, was overwhelmed with this situation, that he left Danny in his condition.

Since then, two years had past and Vlad never showed up. No fighting, nothing.

Danny sat on his chair in the kitchen and smoked a cigarette. He studied science, he was on of the best students and he had a part time Job in a café, although, his messed up life. And now, he was living in a two apartment room. /I should have died, instead of telling him, what I feel for him/ Danny thought.

He was wearing a black Shirt; his arms were covered with scars, not through fights with ghosts, no. Danny cut himself. Yes, he had a boyfriend, before he realizes his feelings, for that billionaire.

It was no one else than, Dash Baxter, that asshole, who bullied Danny, the whole High school.

And end up, in a horror relationship, with that Jockey. At the end, Danny's life was completely, a mess.

He had to begin a therapy, not because of Dash, it was everything and mostly his past. He was abandoned from his parents and also, by his best friends, they turned their back on him.

And this hurt the most.

/I Just have the urge to cut myself again!/ Danny sighed, he felt empty inside and that's the reason why he was cutting himself, in other words, Danny was going to destroy himself, little by little.

But there was some one, who was against this shit, his Ghost half Phantom.

Phantom wanted to live, Danny not. It was his body and Danny decided what to do with himself.

What Danny didn't know was, an unknown Person watched Danny, the whole time. Every time he was cutting himself and everything. And each time, when Danny was going to far, some one stopped him.

/I just don't get it, why can I just die?/

When he grow up to a man, he was getting more beautiful, with each age. Of course he had the blue eyes and black hair just like his father. His body was shaped like a girl. And also he was very talented.

The person who watched Danny, was no one else than Vlad himself.

Danny got scared and jumped up from his chair, when he heard a knock on the front door, of his apartment. /who could it be, I wonder/ Danny thought, he was expecting no one.

Again he sighed and walked slowly to the front door. He forgot just like every time to watch through the peephole and just open the door, his cigarette still in his hand.

"I think, that you should stop smoking, Daniel. It's not good for your healthy." Vlad said and clasped his arms. The younger man was in shock /What is he doing here? Why?/

Danny panicked, Vlad was the only person he didn't want to see.